ST. CHARLES, MO - The Boys & Girls Clubs of St. Charles County will be hosting a free community event called Victory Over Violence Community Concert and Expo on July 27, 2019 from 12:00 noon – 8:00 pm at Frontier Park in St. Charles, MO. This event is designed to bring awareness to anti-bullying, cyber bullying and violence in our community and to provide families positive solutions for change.

The day features a live performance from Country Artist, Wild Bill Young and includes several other performers representing a variety of genres, youth activities, food vendors, and opportunities to engage with other organizations at booths during the expo. Event sponsorships and vendor participation in this event are encouraged to help support the Victory Over Violence in our community.

According to Chuck Alphin, the O'Fallon Unit Director and coordinator of this event, "We look forward to contributing to the conversation of stopping violence in our community with this event. We know that this topic is a big concern for families, and the kids that are Members at our Clubs. We feel that this event provides a fun way for both adults and kids to learn more about the resources available to help them promote positive behavior in their daily lives."
